Historical Note

The University of Arizona Poetry Center began in 1960 as a small house and a collection of some 500 volumes of poetry, donated to the University of Arizona by poet and novelist Ruth Stephan. It has grown to house one of the most extensive collections of contemporary poetry in the United States. Since 1962, the Poetry Center has sponsored one of the nation's earliest, longest-running, and most prestigious reading series, the Visiting Poets and Writers Reading Series, which continues to the present day. The Poetry Center also has a long history of community programming including classes and workshops, lectures, contests, youth programming, writers in residence, and poetry workshops in Arizona penitentiaries. Its leadership has included noted authors such as Richard Shelton, Alison Hawthorne Deming, and LaVerne Harrell Clark.

Scope and Content Note

This collection contains correspondence, administrative records, board meeting minutes, printed materials, audiovisual recordings, and scrapbooks related to the unique history of the Poetry Center and its prominent role in Southern Arizona's literary arts landscape. Information contained within the records offers a comprehensive look at Southern Arizona's literary arts activities and communities from 1960 to the present day. As the Poetry Center is still an active organization, the collection will continue to grow.

The collection is notable in preserving the original audiovisual recordings of poets and writers reading their work for the Poetry Center's Visiting Poets and Writers Reading Series. The first recording, of poet Robert Creeley, dates to Dec. 4, 1963. These recordings are being digitized and made freely available online, with permission from the poets and/or their estates, at the Poetry Center's digital audio video library, voca (<http://voca.arizona.edu>). Since 2007, all new recordings are born digital, although physical copies are retained in the library's holdings.

The collection also includes A-Z "author files" consisting of records and correspondence pertaining to hundreds of poets and writers who visited the Center. Author files typically contain clippings, photos, financial records, and correspondence related to an author's visit. Often the correspondence is rich, reflecting the Center's longstanding tradition of friendship and hospitality to poets. Several files, including Robert Frost's, contain manuscripts or typescripts of poems. Of note, former U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Lee Udall is represented in the author files with materials including typescripts and manuscripts of Udall's own poems.

Series I: Subseries II: Author Files

(9 Boxes)

The Author Files include correspondence, articles, and documents that pertain to authors who have been associated with the Poetry Center. They primarily represent materials dating between the 1960s and 1990s and/or authors who are no longer living. They are organized alphabetically by author's last name. The years that follow an author's name correspond to the date(s) of contact or collection.

Container 9 houses a scrapbook containing regrets letters dated 1964-1965 from poets who were unable to accept an invitation to visit the Poetry Center during that timeframe. The poets include Elizabeth Bishop, Robert Creeley, Denise Levertov, and many others, a significant number of whom went on to visit the Center at a later date.
